My. how everything have changed!

What a difference a month makes! Last month we talked about Palm Sunday and Easter, not even thinking that we wouldn't be able to be in church on those days. Now all the congregations are trying to figure out how and when they will be able return to a normal worship schedule. We have heard from many people that Main Street Living has somewhat filled the void caused by the Corona Virus. "I miss attending church with my friends, but Main Street Living has helped fill that gap" I keep reminding myself that "this will pass". When will I return to worship? I find myself running a song through my mind. It is a song we sing in church at our Praise Service. It is called "We Believe". I have found the words to be comforting and re-assuring:

In this time of desperation, when all we know is doubt and fear,

There is only one foundation, we believe, we believe.

In this broken generation when all is dark, You help us see

There is only one Salvation we believe, we believe.

Chorus:

We believe in God the Father, We believe in Jesus Christ

We believe in the Holy Spirit, and he's given us new life.

We believe in the crucifixion, We believe He conquered death.

We believe in the resurrection, and He's comin' back again, We Believe.

So let our faith be more than anthems, greater than the songs we sing.

And in our weakness and temptations, we believe, we believe.

Chorus:

We believe in God the Father, We believe in Jesus Christ

We believe in the Holy Spirit, and he's given us new life.

We believe in the crucifixion, We believe He conquered death.

We believe in the resurrection, and He's comin' back, He's comin' back again.

We Believe. We Believe.

We all deal with adversity differently, and music is one of my favorite ways of coping. Though I really like the tune that goes along with this song, it's the words that give me a lot more comfort. The song says "we". It let's me know that my friends, relatives, and neighbors are also dealing with this same situation. When we say "we believe" it tells me that we all look to the one God for comfort and assurance.

Through these difficult times we all have been forced to invent new ways of doing business. For centuries, the church has done the majority of ministry within the four walls of a building. Now, we have been instructed not to meet, teach, preach, or counsel inside those walls.

Covid-19 caused pastors to find other ways to keep their ministry active and relevant. Streaming, teleconferencing, social media, on-line instruction, and daily devotions on their web site are some of the innovations that have emerged as substitutes for corporate worship on Sunday. These should not be forgotten when we are able to return to Sunday services. Let's figure out how these new tools can be used when the pastor returns his focus to corporate worship. Lay people are a key to executing all these new delivery systems when the crisis subsides.

One other positive observation has been the involvement of our lay members. Some have picked up and delivered groceries to older, at risk, neighbors. Some have simply called another person to ask them how they are doing. Still others have delivered meals to the elderly. Prayer groups have been formed all over and used the internet or phone to pray together. All these actions define what ministry is: using what God has given to us to help others. We will survive this, Our goal needs to be to learn from this as we move forward with the message of Christ's love. This is what I believe. This is what we need to believe. Adversity can be a great asset if we learn from it. We can move forward with new dynamic practices and ministries.
